

Eugene "Gene" T. Lomas

Eugene "Gene" T. Lomas (1935-2022), was a man of many hats: a Pennsylvania native, a U.S. Army veteran, an excellent machinist, a student and collector of history, a business man, and a reenactor. He was also a competitive NSSA (North South Skirmish Association) shooter of antique style firearms and artillery, a traveler and mentor to many in the Civil War collecting field.

After serving in the army, Gene returned home to a long career with SPS Technologies but used his spare time to collect items related to the Civil War. With his brother George as a partner they founded the Regimental Quartermaster supporting Civil War and Revolutionary War reenactors in their drive to accurately portray soldiers from a bygone era.

Gene's friendship of Quakertown Civil War dealer/collector Stanley W. Landis (1911-1976) enabled Gene to obtain rarer items from a then aging collecting community willing to pass on the excitement to the new generation of collecting. Much of Gene's excitement and passion went towards his military button collection that was acknowledged by many as a museum quality collection in both content, quality and completeness. Please plan to participate in this wonderful auction series to obtain a real piece of history for the next generation.

Alderfer Auction is honored to offer the collection of Eugene "Gene" T. Lomas in a series of 3 auctions. This auction series will consist of a fabulous museum grade collection of military buttons, a collection of Civil War related materials, and finally a collection of general militaria. Our auction company is humbled with Mr. Lomas' and his family's wishes that the complete proceeds of this auction be donated to the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital headquartered in Memphis, Tennessee. The National Auctioneers Association, of which Alderfer Auction is a member, partners with St. Jude Children's Research Hospital to hasten the defeat of childhood cancer and other life-threatening diseases. We take pride in our and the Lomas family's participation in this worthy endeavor.
